1 Introduction

This is the introduction section. LaTeX automatically numbers sections for you.

Paragraphs are separated by blank lines. This is still part of the introduction, but this sentence starts a new paragraph.

2 Background

Sections help organize your document. You can have as many as you need.

2.1 A Subsection

Subsections provide another level of organization. LaTeX numbers these too: this one is numbered 2.1 because it's the first subsection of section 2.

2.2 Another Subsection

And this is subsection 2.2.

3 Conclusion

That's the basic structure of a LaTeX article!
